EXPERIENCE

Ms. Keck joined Thomas Pollart & Miller LLC in 2004. She represents employers and insurance carriers before state courts and administrative agencies, and focuses her practice on workers' compensation. During her career, she has litigated hundreds of workers' compensation claims, served as an Administrative Law Judge for the Colorado Division of Workers' Compensation, drafted proposed workers' compensation legislation, and testified before the Colorado Legislature on workers' compensation issues.

Ms. Keck first began defending workers' compensation claims in 1982 as in-house counsel for Pinnacle Assurance (formerly CCIA). In 1990, after serving as Pinnacle's Chief Counsel for several years, Ms. Keck continued her workers' compensation focus, in private practice. In 1994, McCrea & Keck, LLC was formed and Ms. Keck served as a Managing Member for six years while continuing her insurance defense practice, remaining focused on workers' compensation and employment law. In 2000, after serving as an Administrative Law Judge for the Colorado Division of Workers' Compensation, Ms. Keck joined Treece, Alfrey, Musat & Bosworth, P.C., as a Partner, again focusing her practice on insurance defense, with an emphasis on workers' compensation. When she joined Thomas Pollart & Miller two years later, Ms. Keck continued her career-long focus on workers' compensation.
